

My name is Kelvin Aron Mtobesya, 32 years old male, graduating from department of business administration based on procurement and supply chain management at university of St. Augustine of Tanzania. Currently, I'm working as a procurement officer at Tanzania Airports Authority. For me working as a procurement officer is not only a job but also it is kind of the spirit calling from my deepest heart, it was really amazing and proud of making people come to understand something that they do not understand before. That is why I love the world of education ever since I was at primary school. Besides working as a procurement, I love economics business too. This one is the biggest part of me right now I have been very interested in business since elementary school, knowing how to get much money through selling product as well as knowing the characteristics of many customer outside. Also, in undergraduate program I studied some courses which related to that goal, some of them are introduction to microeconomics, introduction to procurement and supply chain, critical thinking, introduction to philosophy, social ethics, financial accounting, business mathematics, basic computer knowledge and communication skills. Where of each course I got great academic achievement for this reason, after completing my bachelor degree I am planning to pursue my master's degree overseas to improve knowledge and ability as well as to strengthen my character. That why I decided to learn more about Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering in international program because this program will not only teach theoretical knowledge but more than that is practical knowledge based on fielding program.

I would like to apply for the master's degree in Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering in China. I would like to study in China Because after reading books, watching the news, analyzing and observing the people of China I am really impressed by the way these individuals have proved themselves to be dedicated to their work and with true effort they have set China as successful. Example for developing countries like China the fast-growing economy, technological advancement and the global ranking education institutes of China with high reputations makes a great aspiration to the student and professional for the better carrier perspectives. Thus, such kind of positivity has boosted my confidence further I am highly satisfied with the decision I have taken.

After getting my master's degree in the next I want to continue to pursue the doctoral degree if all of those programs completed, my deepest commitment is to go back to Tanzania and do all things I got and learned from China. I have desire to transfer and develop the knowledge that I have gained from this program to the people in Tanzania, I want to motivate and equip them as well as share and spread the knowledge I have is the happiness of life for me. That is my biggest goal.

Finally, I believe that I am capable to obtain good performance during my study at China because it is my own expectations so that I will be able to motivate myself totally not at the time of study but also after I am graduated will do all my best to work confidently with all of my educational background and experiences.

Sincerely Yours.

Kelvin Aron Mtobesya.
